Miss Mai Coleman, Daughter of the Late Major Frederick W. Coleman, U. S. A., Marries Lieutenant Carter.

Ceremony Occurs at Plainfield, N. J., Quietly Because of the Recent Death of the Bride's Father.

Miss Mai Coleman, daughter of the late Major Frederick W. Coleman, United States Army, retired, and Lieut. Clifford Carter, United States Army, were married at Plainfield, N. J., on Wednesday, the Rev. M. J. Farley, curate of St. Mary's Roman Catholic Church, officiating. The ceremony took place in the cottage of the bride's mother, Mrs. F. W. Among the distinguished guests were Gen. Daniel E. Sickles and Gen. Wager Swayne, both old friends of Major Coleman, who was formerly assistant adjutant general of the army.

The bride made her debut in Washington society four years ago, and was an acknowledged belle in army and diplomatic circles. She is an accomplished musician and linguist. FIRST GOVERNMENT
STATISTICIAN DEAD

Mr. Jacob R. Dodge Succumbs to Heart Failure at Woburn, Mass.—Authority on Agricultural Subjects.

News reached Washington yesterday of the death at Woburn, Mass., of Jacob R. Dodge, for years the official statistician of the Department of Agriculture and a scientist of international reputation. For the past ten years Mr. Dodge has not been in active business, owing to his advanced age and failing health. He spent the past summer at his home in Nashua, N. H., and was making arrangements to return to his Washington residence, 1336 Vermont Avenue, when his death from heart failure occurred.

The appointment of Mr. Dodge to his position in the Department of Agriculture was made in 1883, and he was its first statistician. He not only filled the office creditably, but brought it to the notice of other governments. After a service of almost thirty years Mr. Dodge resigned and has since lived in comparative retirement.

Mr. Dodge was born in New Boston, N. H., seventy-nine years ago, and after receiving an academic education took a course in technical study. He began his career as a teacher, but drifted into journalistic work, and before the civil war was in charge of a paper in Nashua, N. H., and later connected with the "American Farmer," of Springfield, Ohio. He became interested in the agricultural resources of the country, and was a recognized authority on the subject.

Mr. Dodge edited the annual report of the Department of Agriculture, and was a frequent contributor to the press on subjects pertaining to its work. He was regarded abroad as a scholar of statistical science, and was elected a member of the International Statistical Institute.

Since resigning his position under the Government Mr. Dodge prepared a bulletin on wool and its industry, which was issued by the department.

Mr. Dodge is survived by his widow and a son, Charles Richard Dodge.

Agricultural Department Acts.

A meeting of the officers of the United States Department of Agriculture was held in the office of the Secretary at 2 o'clock p. m. yesterday to take action in regard to the death of Mr. Dodge, for nearly thirty years an employee of the department.

The meeting was called to order by Dr. B. T. Galloway, Chief of the Bureau of Plant Industry, who acted as chairman, and Mr. Joseph A. Arnold, associate editor of the Division of Publications, was selected as secretary. In stating the object of the meeting Dr. Galloway referred to Mr. Dodge's long and faithful service, which began September 4, 1883, and terminated with his resignation on March 31, 1893.

On motion of Col. G. B. Brackett a committee on resolutions was appointed, consisting of Mr. George William Hill, Dr. A. C. True and Mr. R. E. Smith, which reported expressing appreciation of the many excellent qualities of Mr. Dodge and his value to the scientific world.

Remarks were made by Major Henry E. Alvord, Chief of the Dairy Division; Dr. B. T. Galloway, Chief of the Bureau of Plant Industry; Mr. R. E. Smith, of the Division of Statistics; Dr. A. C. True, Director of the Office of Experiment Stations; and Mr. George William Hill, Chief of the Division of Publications, upon whose motion the secretary was directed to send a telegram expressing the sympathy of those present at the meeting to the family of the deceased.

IROQUOIS CLUB SMOKER
PROVES MOST ENJOYABLE

Opening Festivity of the Fall Season Largely Attended and Made Entertaining by the Excellent Program.

Goodfellowship reigned supreme once again last night at the Iroquois Club, its cozy rooms on Pennsylvania Avenue near Fourteenth Street being well filled with members attending the autumn smoker of the popular organization. It was the opening festivity of the season and proved fully as successful as those held last winter.

The entertainment provided held the attention of the members until a late hour. It was opened with coon songs by George O'Connor, who sang well received. Harry Henlein also sang several Yiddish songs and told dialect stories with good effect, while Al Griffith, who has won considerable reputation by his imitations, came in for several encores. William C. Jones proved one of the principal attractions, giving a number of sleight-of-hand tricks, and Will Clabaugh's baritone solos were strongly applauded.

William C. Jones regaled those present with a number of stories, causing much laughter. He was followed by the Wright brothers with piano selections of an artistic nature, while the Leslie brothers closed the evening's program with an excellent and unique musical turn.

POLK MILLER-TO APPEAR IN THIS CITY

Well-Known Entertainer and His "Plantation Dances" Billed for the Masonic Temple Tonight.

Polk Miller, the well-known Southern raconteur, and his "Plantation Dances" are billed to appear in this city tonight and tomorrow evening at Masonic Temple.

Mr. Miller's fame as a negro impersonator and general entertainer is widespread, but this is the first time he has appeared with a full acting company, giving personal representation of the subject of his "Story and Song."

A number of old-time negroes have been selected from the tobacco factories with an eye to their ability to make music and shake their feet, and the aggregation is said to be immensely amusing and thoroughly unique.

The program is made up of stories of negro life, banjo picking, quartet singing, and buck and wing dancing, such as is unknown to the present generation of amusement seekers.

The old songs, so dear to the hearts of those from " Dixie," are rendered in a manner as only the old-time darky can sing them and are said to bring tears to the eyes of the audience.
